Dear Mr. Poyiadjis:

Thank you for your exceptional contribution of $1,000,000 to the NYU School of Medicine. We are so grateful for this donation in support of the Department of Physiology and Neuroscience, which will enable the purchase and support of a world-class MEG machine.

The Medical School remains committed to maintaining its leading edge in research and education, which ensures quality patient care for our city. Our ability to fulfill this mission relies largely on the vision and leadership of our friends and partners. Your gift to NYU will allow our faculty to pursue the most promising avenues of research in brain function. We deeply appreciate this valuable commitment to compassionate science, and your gift to the health and well-being of our community.

I am thrilled to hear about the recovery of your brother Alkis, and look forward to welcoming you both to future events at NYU.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Poyiadjis:

Thank you so much for your outstanding contribution to the Department of Physiology and Neuroscience at the NYU School of Medicine. Your generous gift will support the purchase of a new Magnetoencephalography machine for the department, and will promote cutting edge research in brain functions.

I share Dr. Llinas's deep gratitude for this superb gift, which enables us to continue a tradition of excellence, from world-class MEG equipment for our renowned team of doctors, to the resulting translational research and patient centered care. Your partnership and commitment are deeply appreciated by all those who provide the vital services of the NYU Medical Center, and all who share your vision.

Again, thank you for this wonderful gift. I am so glad to learn of your brother's inspiring recovery. We are excited to share our progress and successes with you.

Sincerely,

Robert M. Glickman, M.D.

Dear Mr. Poyiadjis:

I have just learned of your generous contribution to the New University School of Medicine in support of Dr. Rodolfo Llinas' work in the Department of Physiology and Neuroscience.

The NYU School of Medicine is one of the premier medical research centers in the world. Your gift will allow Dr. Llinas and his team to further their research by enabling the purchase of a new magnetoencephalography (MEG) machine. The brain is a complicated and little-understood organ, but I have no doubt that your contribution will allow this brilliant group of researchers to better identify its functions. As a result, treatment options for many different ailments and disorders will be possible.

Mr. Poyiadjis, your gift is a wonderful ratification of Dr. Llinas' efforts. On behalf of the entire NYU community, I want to express my deep gratitude for this tremendous gift.

I look forward for an opportunity to meet you in the future. Until then, many, many thanks, and all best wishes.

Sincerely,

John Sexton

Dear Roys:

It is my pleasure to welcome you to The Sir Harold Acton Society of New York University. The Sir Harold Acton Society honors the generous individuals, corporations, and foundations that have made gifts of $1 million or more to the University. Martin Lipton, Chair of the Board of Trustees, and John Sexton, President of NYU, invite you to join them for a special evening on Wednesday, January 25, 2006, to formally salute and induct you into The Sir Harold Acton Society and to present you with the Sir Harold Acton Medal of New York University.

The University's successful transformation into one of the world's leading private research universities has been made possible because of the outstanding contributions of friends like you. Your help, along with the assistance of your peers, promotes advancements in areas such as medical research, scholarships and financial aid, recruitment of top academic leaders, and the creation of a residential campus. Your support is vital as we head into the second half of The Campaign for NYU, the largest fundraising campaign in NYU's history. It is leaders like you who will help assure the Campaign's continued success.

In grateful recognition of your generosity, NYU will include your name on The Sir Harold Acton Society plaque. This handsome plaque is displayed year-round to students, alumni, parents, and friends at the heart of our campus in the Helen and Martin Kimmel Center for University Life. To ensure that we list your name properly, please complete the enclosed form and return it to Gustave Fleury at your earliest convenience.

Later this year, you will receive a formal invitation to The Sir Harold Acton Society Induction Dinner. Please save the date for this important event to be held on Wednesday, January 25, 2006. Cocktails will begin at 6:30 PM with dinner to follow at 7:15 PM. I look forward to seeing you at this very special occasion.

With best wishes for a wonderful Thanksgiving.

Warmest regards,

Debra A. LaMorte

Dear Roys:

I am sorry that you were unable to join us last night for your induction into the Sir Harold Acton Society of New York University. Our success in becoming one of the world's leading private research universities has been made possible by the significant contributions of friends like you. Let me say again how deeply grateful I am for your support of NYU.

It is my great pleasure to enclose the Sir Harold Acton Society Medal along with the program from our induction ceremony. This medal recognizes your enormous commitment to the University's mission. I hope to see you in the near future so that I can personally express my appreciation for your exceptional generosity.

With my warmest personal regards to you and your family.

Sincerely,

John Sexton
